Full Line up announced for 2010 Australia Day Live Concert

The Rogue Traders, Amy Meredith and Phrase were today announced as the final three artists joining the already stellar line up for this year's Australia Day Live Concert. The diverse line up will have the expected 35,000 plus crowd grooving to some of the newest hits on the charts and then singing along to some good old favourites.

The Rogue Traders are no strangers to Canberra and the Australia Day Live Concert. This year they return with a new single, new album and Mindi Jackson, their new lead singer. While still maintaining their distinctive Rogue Traders sound, the Australia Day Live crowd can expect to hear a slightly more dance based set from Rogue Traders this year.

Phrase, dubbed everyone's favourite hip-hop artist, has just released a new album "Clockwork" which brings together some of the icons of the Australian music industry including Spiderbait and Bliss N Eso. Phrase's out of the box approach to making music earned him a top 30 ARIA debut as well as an ARIA nomination for Clockwork.

Sydney quintet, Amy Meredith, have seen a rapid rise to fame since forming in 2008. After releasing their self titled debut single, the band headed to the US to tour before coming home Sydney to write their soon-to-be-released debut album.

The full line up of artists for the 2010 Australia Day Live Concert is:

- Ian Moss
- Bertie Blackman

MEDIA RELEASE

“We have managed to attract some of Australia’s best musical talent to perform at this years concert, I am sure that Canberrans will not be disappointed with the line up” said Warren Pearson, Chief Executive Officer of National Australia Day Council.

“The concert is always held on Australia Day eve. We hope that this will encourage more people than ever to come and enjoy Canberra’s largest free outdoor concert after work on Monday the 25th” said Pearson.

“The Australia Day Live concert is a great way to kick off the celebrations for Australia Day, so Canberrans should make sure they come down to the lawns at Parliament House to share their Aussie spirit” said Pearson.

The celebrations will commence at 5.45pm with the announcement of the Australian of the Year Awards followed by the Australia Day Live Concert. Make sure you are there early to get a good spot on the grass.
